Where are they now?

Michael Benefield was a Summer Horsemanship School Instructor in 1992, 1993, and 1994. This experience revealed a love of teaching and helping others and began a life and career trajectory that continues to this day. Michael currently serves with All the King's Horses (ATKH), a Christian non-profit in Montgomery, TX dedicated to serving at-risk youth through horsemanship, life skills, and the Bible.

“The horsemanship schools are great for horses and riders, due in large part to the time spent horseback. Often times, this amount of riding is just what a horse needed to get better at the basic fundamentals that are so important to accomplishing more advanced maneuvers. The schools are built around a lot of riding time, and include valuable information on how to take the horse and youngster to the next level.”
